

Dear Teachers and Staff,

As we embark on the new academic year 2024-25, I am excited to welcome you back to Team Monroe for another great year. Our theme for this year is "Relationships are the Key," and I truly believe that building strong, meaningful relationships is the foundation for achieving success. By taking the time to learn about each other's interests, values, and experiences, we can move beyond surface-level interactions and develop a deeper understanding and appreciation for one another. When we take the time to learn about both our colleagues and our students, we can tailor our approaches to meet their unique needs, foster a sense of belonging, and create a positive and supportive learning environment. As we navigate the ups and downs of the school year ahead, let us prioritize building relationships as an essential part of our daily practice. By doing so, we will not only create a more harmonious and productive workplace, but also provide our students with a sense of connection and belonging that will serve them well throughout their academic journey. Let's work together to make this year one to remember!

Yours in education,
Terri Axford
