Q&A Response No: 4

Q1. Should we include a team of engineers in our proposal? The solicitation is labeled as “Architectural Services” but the Scope of Services states that “Incidental project engineering services may be required for construction projects”. Does that mean that we should include a team of engineers or will the School District release a separate solicitation requesting Engineering services?

A1. Engineers do not need to be included unless they are part of your firm, and you would like to include it in your proposal.

Q2. As an Architectural firm, we do not provide Bonding. Can this item please be removed from the documents required in the proposal?

A2. Bonding is not applicable to this RFQ. For the Bond tab, include a blank page with Not Applicable printed on it.

Q3. Does the School District have a list of potential projects that will be done through this continuing contract?

A3. The District does not have a current list of projects that will be done through this continuing contract

Q4. Can you please share the list of previous firms who had a continuing contract with the School District?

A4. The District has not previously advertised for continuing services
